

National Defender

A Transcendental Forum for Unobstructed Opinions and Observations

"We will walk on our own feet; we will work with our own hands; we will speak our own minds ... A nation of men will for the first time exist, because each believes himself inspired by the Divine Soul which also inspires all men." Ralph Waldo Emerson

<http://nationaldefender.us/>

Protocol for Americans By Jim Hafeman

I had the pleasure of attending the Michigan American Legion's Winter Conference in Lansing in mid-February. I took the opportunity to share my observations regarding American Flag lapel pins and received an affirmation regarding the proper display of the pin. The US Flag pins should be worn on the right lapel or collar, not on the left side like we've seen on politicians.

Military, veterans, law enforcement officers, fire fighters and others who wear or have worn the uniform may find the following protocol of value. When speaking, such as reciting the Pledge of Allegiance, you should rise, remove your cover, and hold it over your heart with your right hand.

While The Star Spangled Banner, our National Anthem, is played or being sung, military veterans may rise and render a salute, even if not wearing a cover of colors, such as a Legion or VFW cover.

During the National Anthem all other citizens should stand and first face the Flag of the United States or if not seen face in the direction of the music. The right hand should be put over the heart to show a sincere respect for the nation, citizens, and all those who served us with honor. Can you identify two discrepancies in the photo to the right? Aside from the wannabe President giving his usual crotch-salute, if there was no Color Guard entering the field, the participants on the stage should have turned around and faced the American Flag.

As we look at a stage during speeches, the US Flag is appropriately displayed on the left; to our right as we stand on the stage. That same respectful display applies to the flag that we pin to our apparel.

Next, there is the disrespect and outright blatant disregard of the American Flag by the politicians. The overt display of the Flag is pretty obvious to veterans and other Americans; politicians are trying to provide a public imagery that somehow they are more patriotic when they decorate their backdrop with American Flags. The most appropriate understanding on displaying the Flag of the United States of America is simple: "one flag; one nation".

With the upcoming Memorial Day, 4th of July, and other honorary events, it may be good to review the protocols regarding the Color Guard teams. Although we are compelled to recognize the Color Guard, an applause is not the most appropriate demonstration of the due respect.

A solemn silence should be observed.

The Color Guard is the main focus when they carry the flag into a ceremony or at the start of a parade. All persons should rise, face the center where the flag will pass. When the Color Guard is seen in the peripherals of your vision, eligible persons should render a hand salute and others should cover their heart with the right hand. Go to rest once the Color Guard has moved out of your peripheral.

Individuals are at times unsure what they should do during certain occasions. We've all see the built-up energy among athletes as they kick the ground or look around during the National Anthem. What we do, as Patriots, sets the example for persons around us, especially young people.

<http://www.ushistory.org/betsy/flagetia.html>

HIGHLIGHTS

PAGE 2: Effective May 1, 2010, the State of Michigan will prohibit smoking in all public places, except of course the casinos in downtown Detroit.

PAGE 2: A budget deficit occurs when an entity spends more money than it takes in. The opposite of a budget deficit is a budget surplus.

PAGE 3: The religious leader was shown the back door which led past the piles of garbage bags. Obama has disgraced America.

PAGE 3: Waleza continued, "Most of us believed America was too big to fail, but we were wrong. The axis of corruption in America has pivoted on Chicago where Saul Alinsky began his community organizing in 1939.

PAGE 4: I walked into my schoolroom to find the crucifix replaced by Hitler's picture hanging next to a Nazi flag. Our teacher, a very devout woman, stood up and told the class we wouldn't pray or have religion anymore.

PAGE 5: Mark Levin in his 2009 book Liberty and Tyranny said in 1965, President Lyndon Johnson, building on the New Deal with his Great Society, used the umbrella of the Social Security Act to establish two massive new entitlement programs - Medicare and Medicaid.

PAGE 6: A recent study in Georgia found more than 15,000 dead people on active voting rolls statewide.

PAGE 7: On the political front, Obama has no authority; he is well behaved and does as he's told.

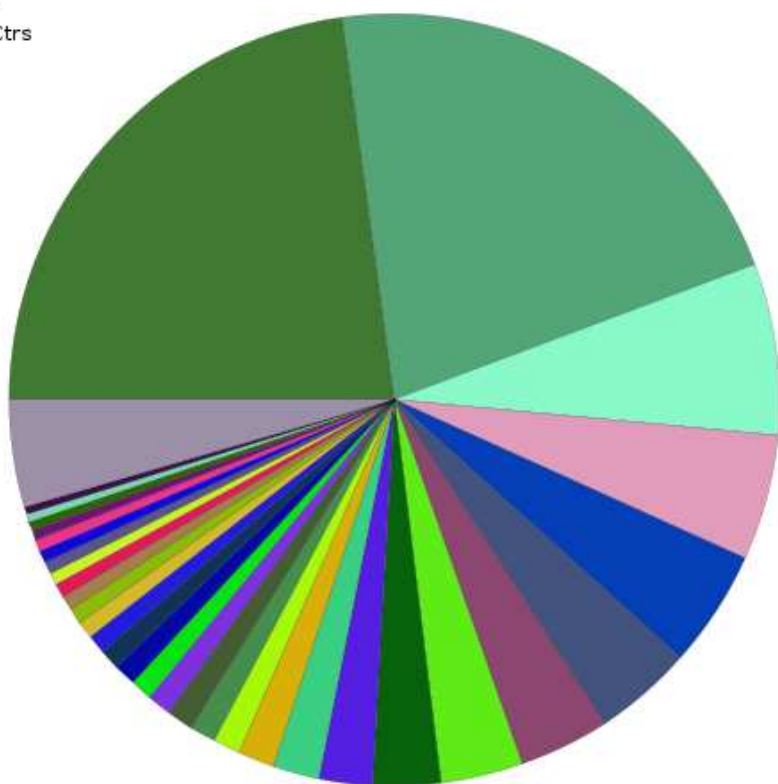

PAGE 8: This Side UP

Does it matter how we vote?

billions of dollars

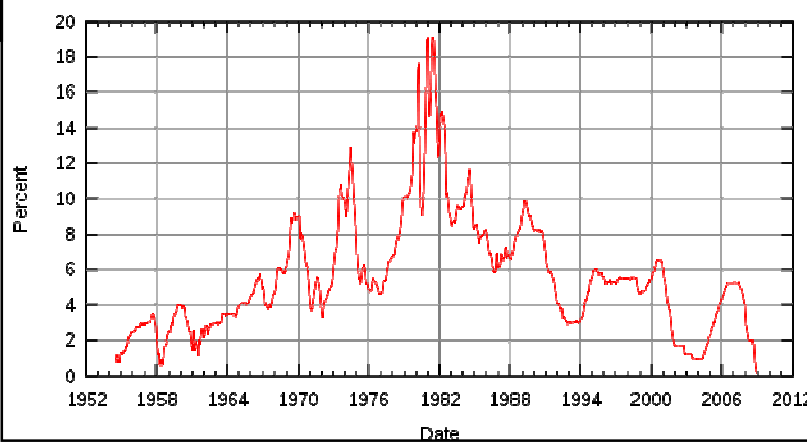

- 798.9 China, Mainland
- 751.5 Japan
- 249.3 United Kingdom
- 185.3 Oil Exporters
- 171.7 Carib Bnkg Ctrs
- 144.9 Brazil
- 132.2 Hong Kong
- 121.8 Russia
- 98.7 Luxembourg
- 78.1 Taiwan
- 68.9 Switzerland
- 53.7 Germany
- 38.8 Korea
- 38.3 Singapore
- 38.3 Canada
- 35.9 India
- 32.7 Ireland
- 32.1 France
- 30.1 Thailand
- 28.2 Turkey
- 25.2 Norway
- 22.1 Mexico
- 21.3 Netherlands
- 20.8 Egypt
- 18.3 Sweden
- 18.3 Israel
- 17.6 Italy
- 16.7 Colombia
- 15 Belgium
- 12.9 Chile
- 11.8 Philippines
- 11 Malaysia
- 156.8 All Other

Major Foreign Holders of U.S. Treasury Securities (Sep 2009)

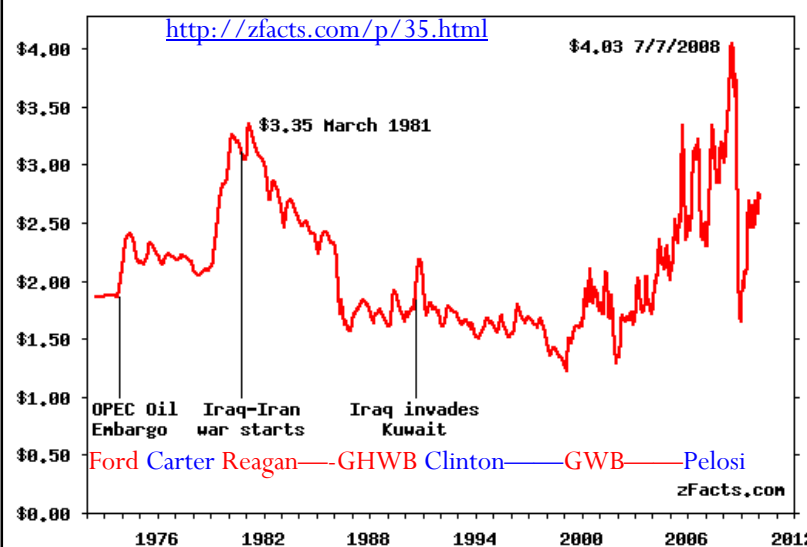

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/United_States_public_debt

Federal Funds Rate (effective) July 1954 to December 2008

<http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Inflation>

Regular Gasoline Price in Today's Dollars (1/25/2010)

http://www.eia.doe.gov/oil_gas/petroleum/data_publications/wrgp/mogas_home_page.html

Arrogance of Government Boycott in Michigan Looming

Upper Peninsula, Michigan: Both the U.P. Patriots and the NationalDefender.us are calling upon smokers, supportive business owners and all freedom-loving citizens in the State to take-on the Michigan legislature and commie Governor Granholm in defying their quest to dictate social policies.

Effective May 1, 2010, the State of Michigan will prohibit smoking in all public places, except of course the casinos in downtown Detroit.

The obvious political sabotage of the rights of private businesses and citizens has reached its crescendo. We are now going to ask all those concerned to join us in a unified demonstration of our outrage and discontentment with Michigan's continuous poor policies of disrespect.

Through a prolonged and possible permanent boycott of government revenue-raising schemes, we are now asking all supporters to boycott the Michigan Lotto and Lottery, Detroit area casinos, and all the unnecessary subsidization of Michigan's spending and dictator inclinations.

Aside from replacing most persons holding state and national offices in 2010, the UP Patriots and ND have joined forces to publically combat what can only be considered as an overbearing dictatorial government which utilize laws, regulations, rules, and visceral voodoo science to stomp on the rights of citizens and impose unnecessary restriction on our already struggling businesses and industries.

The December 2009 signature by Governor Granholm to implement a law to ban smoking in all public places with the exception of the Detroit casinos on May 1, 2010 is the final brick in the wall.

Michigan imposes a $2.00 state tax and the federal government has a $1.006 tax on a pack of cigarettes – Michigan totals the cost of the pack of cigarettes, adds the sin taxes and then assesses a 6% sales tax. Michigan Attorney General Mike Cox is aware of the tax on a tax yet has done nothing on behalf of citizens of the State.

Mr. Cox would not make a suitable Governor based on his lack of concern for the smoking citizens who mostly live below the poverty level.

In addition to attacking low-income citizens, the synopsis of the State of Michigan's cut of the national Tobacco Settlement from Michiganinbrief.org exposed:

Michigan's initial payment from the tobacco industry was $104.5 million, to be followed by $279–365 million annually for 24 years. Michigan, however, allocates none of its settlement money directly to tobacco-use prevention and cessation; it is one of only three states to take this approach.

Most disturbing is the fact that:

The Michigan Tobacco Settlement Finance Authority ("Authority") was created by Act 226 of 2005 and amended by Act 18 of 2007 to issue bonds secured by a pledge of a percentage of tobacco settlement proceeds which will be used to finance projects under the 21st Century Jobs Fund and make deposits to the state school aid fund and the general fund.

With the unemployment rate at 14.6%, which does not include those citizens no longer eligible to receive unemployment funds or who have had to escape the State because of the lack of work, the citizens need to ask just how well those 21st Century Jobs Funds are working out?

But, what is fundamentally the most disturbing feature of the State's political atmosphere is the insane laws, rules, and regulations which affect the business climate.

The State still punishes success, has incentive programs for green businesses and industries, gives tax breaks to the movie industry, all while they continue to crap on those who had built and supported the State for generations. There are no retention incentives.

It's pretty tough to tout the new slogan, "Pure Michigan" when there's an enormous turd floating in the middle of the political gene pool. Until the State respects its citizens there should be no reason for the citizens to reciprocate.

Debt versus Deficit

Government debt (also known as public debt or national debt) is money (or credit) owed by any level of government; either central government, federal government, municipal government or local government. The annual government deficit, however, refers to the difference between government receipts and spending in any given year.

As the government draws its income from much of the population, government debt is an indirect debt of the taxpayers. Government debt can be categorized as internal debt, owed to lenders within the country, and external debt, owed to foreign lenders. Governments usually borrow by issuing securities, government bonds and bills. Less creditworthy countries sometimes borrow directly from supranational institutions. Some consider all government liabilities, including future pension payments and payments for goods and services the government has contracted but not yet paid, as government debt.

Another common division of government debt is by duration until repayment is due. Short term debt is generally considered to be one year or less, long term is more than ten years. Medium term debt falls between these two boundaries.

A government bond is a bond issued by a national government, and often denominated in the country's domestic currency. Bonds issued by national governments in foreign currencies are normally referred to as sovereign bonds. Government bonds are theoretically risk-free bonds, because governments can, up to a point, raise taxes, reduce spending, or simply print more money to redeem the bond at maturity. Investors in sovereign bonds denominated in foreign currency have the additional risk that the issuer may be unable to obtain foreign currency to redeem the bonds.

A budget deficit occurs when an entity spends more money than it takes in. The opposite of a budget deficit is a budget surplus.

An accumulated governmental deficit over several years (or decades) is referred to as the government debt. Government debt is usually financed by borrowing, although if a government's debt is denominated in its own currency it can print new currency to pay debts. Monetizing debts, however, can cause rapid inflation (but does not necessarily do so) if done on a large scale. Governments can also sell assets to pay off debt. Most governments finance their debts by issuing long-term government bonds or shorter term notes and bills. Many governments use auctions to sell government bonds.

Governments usually must pay interest on what they have borrowed. Governments reduce debt when their revenues exceed their current expenditures and interest costs. Otherwise, government debt increases, requiring the issue of new government bonds or other means of financing debt, such as asset sales.

According to Keynesian economic theories, running a fiscal deficit and increasing government debt can stimulate economic activity when a country's output (GDP) is below its potential output. When an economy is running near or at its potential level of output, fiscal deficits can cause inflation.

The Ricardian equivalence hypothesis, named after the English political economist and Member of Parliament David Ricardo, states that because households anticipate that current public deficit will be paid through future taxes, those households will accumulate savings now to offset those future taxes. If households acted in this way, a government would not be able to use fiscal policy to stimulate the economy. The Ricardian equivalence result requires assumptions. These include households acting as if they were infinite-lived dynasties as well as assumptions of no uncertainty and no liquidity constraints.

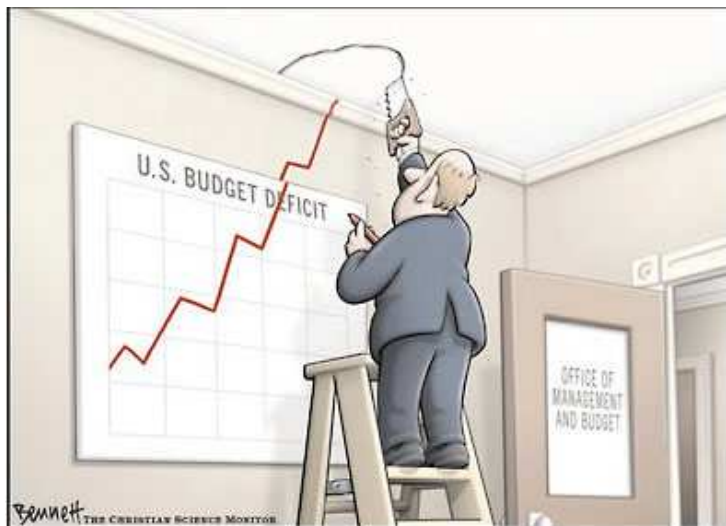

[See sites for more info]
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Government_debt
<http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Deficit>

NATIONAL DEFENDER

The National Defender is a publication of the U. P. Patriots. We are very partisan group of concerned citizens: partisan (n.) A fervent, sometimes militant supporter or proponent of a party, cause, faction, person, or idea. Our fervent stance embraces the idea of Creationism, the constant support of the Constitution, the vocal advocacy of human and property rights and a commitment to holding an elected or appointed office wholly accountable to those who pay their wages and provide funding for their benefits.

Our goal is to provide our readers with an alternative source of news and opinions that is not limited to butt-kissing and ankle-grabbing of most news and opinion providers. We will try to collect revealing and credible news stories from any source to help keep the citizens of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan and the U. S. highly informed. An informed public is an intelligent public—

We hold these values in order to ensure a viable and accountable governmental system. We hold all persons of truth harmless.

The government's deficit can be measured with or without including the interest it pays on its debt. The primary deficit is defined as the difference between current government spending and total current revenue from all types of taxes. The total deficit (which is often just called the 'deficit') is spending, plus interest payments on the debt, minus tax revenues.

Therefore, if t is a timeframe, G_t is government spending and T_t is tax revenue for the respective timeframe, then

$$\text{Primary deficit} = G_t - T_t$$

If D_{t-1} is last year's debt, and r is the interest rate, then

$$\text{Total deficit} = G_t + rD_{t-1} - T_t$$

Finally, this year's debt can be calculated from last year's debt and this year's total deficit:

$$D_t = (1 + r)D_{t-1} + G_t - T_t$$

Economic trends can influence the growth or shrinkage of fiscal deficits in several ways. Increased levels of economic activity generally lead to higher tax revenues, while government expenditures often increase during economic downturns because of higher outlays for social insurance programs such as unemployment benefits. Changes in tax rates, tax enforcement policies, levels of social benefits, and other government policy decisions can also have major effects on public debt. For some countries, such as Norway, Russia, and members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), oil and gas receipts play a major role in public finances.

Inflation reduces the real value of accumulated debt. If investors anticipate future inflation, however, they will demand higher interest rates on government debt, making public borrowing more expensive.

<http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Deficit>

Depth of Incompetence

The golden calf Jews of the White House, along with their Muslim leader, have once again proven themselves anything but dignified. The Dali Lama visited the White House on February 18, 2010.

The religious leader was shown the back door which led past the piles of garbage bags. Obama has disgraced America.

In a USATODAY.com article written by Calum MacLeod, he reported, "I have been disappointed in Obama as he has been too weak in his public expressions on China's human rights situation," Beijing lawyer Jiang Tianyong said.

© AFP/Getty Images

http://www.usatoday.com/printedition/news/20100218/chinahumanrights18_st.art.htm

Further down in the article, they wrote The China-U.S. relationship is "the most complex and vital relationship in the world today," U.S. Ambassador to China Jon Huntsman said in a statement. "We cannot, we must not, allow our disagreements to negate aspects of our relationship that are so critical to the region and the world."

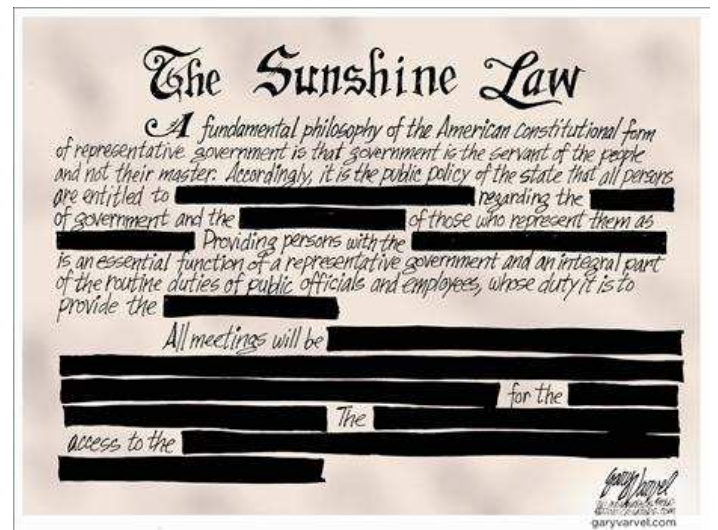

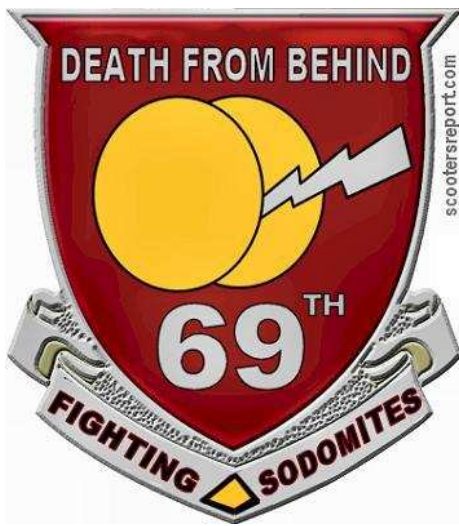

Anti-religious zealots in DC care more about China.

While trade with China is only one way, except when it comes to lending money to the Obama Administration to pay for communist programs, the Dali Lama is not only a religious leader, but an icon of truth, sincerity, and peace. It's unlikely that the Dali Lama was embarrassed to walk by the White House trash because of his elevated humility, but Americans who have any level of respect at all have experienced a stunning embarrassment.

The overt arrogance of an incompetent President reminds us that the position of President is one that needs to be taken seriously and not opened up to just any person capable of babbling their way through a well-orchestrated speech. That was an obvious conclusion after the Clinton Administration, but Americans felt it time for some type of change.

On behalf of the citizens of the United States, we offer our heartfelt apologies to the Dali Lama and his supporters.

New military division created in response to the elimination of the don't ask, don't tell policies.

America's Dissention By J. C. Powers

While it's fundamentally crucial that all Americans learn about those horrendous actions, inactions, policies and disastrous events being conducted by the legions of anti-American Progressives, the enlightened voters also need to retain their visible anger and outrage through the November 2010 election. We, the People, are not only able to affect a drastic change in the direction the communists are trying to take us, but we're also capable of setting the national timbre and beat.

On Friday, January 29, 2010, Lech Walesa former President of Poland, was in Chicago to attend a fundraiser for Illinois gubernatorial candidate Adam Andrzejewski, who lost the March 2nd GOP primary.

<http://www.adamforillinois.com/>

President Lech Walesa told the supporters, "The U.S. is a superpower. Nobody doubts that. Today they lead the world-militarily. They also lead economically, but they are weak. They don't lead morally and politically any more. The world has no leadership. The U.S. was the last resort and hope for all the nations. Today we have lost the hope."

Walesa continued, "Most of us believed America was too big to fail, but we were wrong. The axis of corruption in America has pivoted on Chicago where Saul Alinsky began his community organizing in 1939. His movement, unlike Solidarity, became a leviathan of union bosses, self interest, and leftist platforms."

The fact it took an activist leader from a country half-way around the world to point out that our political divisiveness has spurred an international angst because of the high level of incompetence, corruption and mismanagement among our elected representatives, should justify a celebration among those who have been sounding the same warning for years, but it's more of a political embarrassment.

The quiet revolution was percolating for over a decade. Numerous patriots found themselves alone in a windless sea of hushed anxiety. The government was way out of control with spending, non-laws, bad laws, and overall poor management.

While few political candidates had been at the forefront warning of the impending economic, political, social, and moral doom facing the nation and several of its states, too few voters were compelled to do anything more than reelect incumbents based on the polished likeability factor and the fantasy of meaningful seniority.

If there is only one thing we must take away from the annals of history during the first decade of the 21st Century its that there are numerous just reasons for term limits. Most of the citizens cannot be trusted to make good judgments regarding candidates until it is too late, such as it is now and career politicians will never admit their usefulness has expired.

In the most recent movement in the area of education, we are one step closer to having the children of the nation tested, evaluated, and analyzed in order to place them in an academic funnel that leads them to their future career, as determined by America's neo-Nazis. The failure of the education system is directly related to the involvement of the governments in the development and execution of academic programs.

Notwithstanding, the teacher's unions have also been principal players in the demise of the education system. We've also seen the roles unions have played in the development of the dependent class and promotion of the entitlement groups. While unions have played an important and integral part of a growing America, their relevance has become only political.

The revolution created by union members against the communists system in Poland has given American unions little inspiration. As Poland emerged from the bowels and cysts of communist dictates, Americans unions are now embracing the ideologies associated with the communists' dictates that defiled Poland for decades.

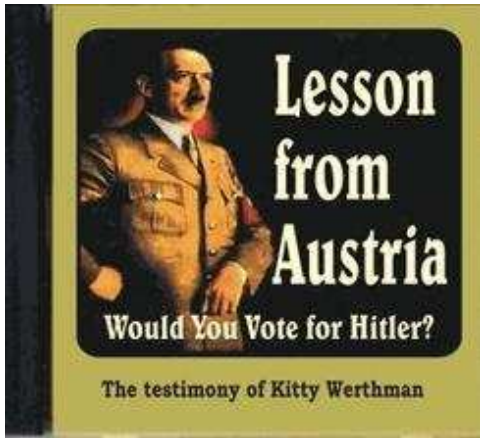

It's quite apparent that the union leadership is easily bought and paid for by the neo-Nazis in the Obama Administration and the glitter of the congressional communists, the union workers are a little more reluctant to buy-into the devout principles advocated by their union leadership. This manifestation may help both the union workers and union leadership in that the leadership will most certainly be voted-out and replaced in short order.

If the unions are indeed reorganized into groups that actually represent the workers and not the political pundits, America may gradually return to an industrial nation. One of the first benefits will be the silencing of the environmentalists who have been deliberately engaged in destroying the industrial base of the nation and relinquishing the individual's sovereignty through the depletion of private property rights.

Just as the leadership in communist China and the Soviet Union have no qualms about ignoring the people, members of Congress and the Kenyan President have virtually ignored the calls, faxes, and emails from constituents. While purporting to validate all voters and their votes, a large majority of the people in DC have been slowly depleted the power and influence of the citizen, temporarily.

John Adams in a speech to the military in 1798 warned his fellow countrymen stating, "We have no government armed with power capable of contending with human passions unbridled by morality and religion . . . Our Constitution was made only for a moral and religious people. It is wholly inadequate to the government of any other." John Adams is a signer of the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights and our second President.

AMERICA TRULY IS THE GREATEST COUNTRY IN THE WORLD. DON'T LET FREEDOM SLIP AWAY.

What I am about to tell you is something you've probably never heard or will ever read in history books.

I believe that I am an eyewitness to history. I cannot tell you that Hitler took Austria by tanks and guns; it would distort history. We elected him by a landslide – 98% of the vote. I've never read that in any American publications. Everyone thinks that Hitler just rolled in with his tanks and took Austria by force. In 1938, Austria was in deep Depression. Nearly one-third of our workforce was unemployed. We had 25% inflation and 25% bank loan interest rates.

Farmers and business people were declaring bankruptcy daily. Young people were going from house to house begging for food. Not that they didn't want to work; there simply weren't any jobs. My mother was a Christian woman and believed in helping people in need. Every day we cooked a big kettle of soup and baked bread to feed those poor, hungry people – about 30 daily.

The Communist Party and the National Socialist Party were fighting each other. Blocks and blocks of cities like Vienna, Linz, and Graz were destroyed. The people became desperate and petitioned the government to let them decide what kind of government they wanted.

We looked to our neighbor on the north, Germany, where Hitler had been in power since 1933. We had been told that they didn't have unemployment or crime, and they had a high standard of living. Nothing was ever said about persecution of any group -- Jewish or otherwise. We were led to believe that everyone was happy. We wanted the same way of life in Austria. We were promised that a vote for Hitler would mean the end of unemployment and help for the family. Hitler also said that businesses would be assisted, and farmers would get their farms back. Ninety-eight percent of the population voted to annex Austria to Germany and have Hitler for our ruler.

We were overjoyed, and for three days we danced in the streets and had candlelight parades. The new government opened up big field kitchens and everyone was fed.

After the election, German officials were appointed, and like a miracle, we suddenly had law and order. Three or four weeks later, everyone was employed. The government made sure that a lot of work was created through the Public Work Service.

Hitler decided we should have equal rights for women. Before this, it was a custom that married Austrian women did not work outside the home. An able-bodied husband would be looked down on if he couldn't support his family. Many women in the teaching profession were elated that they could retain the jobs they previously had been required to give up for marriage.

Hitler Targets Education – Eliminates Religious Instruction for Children:

Our education was nationalized. I attended a very good public school. The population was predominantly Catholic, so we had religion in our schools. The day we elected Hitler (March 13, 1938), I walked into my schoolroom to find the crucifix replaced by Hitler's picture hanging next to a Nazi flag. Our teacher, a very devout woman, stood up and told the class we wouldn't pray or have religion anymore. Instead, we sang "Deutschland, Deutschland, Uber Alles," and had physical education.

Sunday became National Youth Day with compulsory attendance. Parents were not pleased about the sudden change in curriculum. They were told that if they did not send us, they would receive a stiff letter of warning the first time. The second time they would be fined the equivalent of $300, and the third time they would be subject to jail. The first two hours consisted of political indoctrination. The rest of the day we had sports. As time went along, we loved it. Oh, we had so much fun and got our sports equipment free. We would go home and gleefully tell our parents about the wonderful time we had.

My mother was very unhappy. When the next term started, she took me out of public school and put me in a convent. I told her she couldn't do that and she told me that someday when I grew up, I would be grateful. There was a very good curriculum, but hardly any fun – no sports, and no political indoctrination. I hated it at first but felt I could tolerate it. Every once in a while, on holidays, I went home. I would go back to my old friends and ask what was going on and what they were doing. Their loose lifestyle was very alarming to me. They lived without religion. By that time unwed mothers were glorified for having a baby for Hitler. It seemed strange to me that our society changed so suddenly. As time went along, I realized what a great deed my mother did so that I wasn't exposed to that kind of humanistic philosophy.

Equal Rights Hits Home:

In 1939, the war started and a food bank was established. All food was rationed and could only be purchased using food stamps. At the same time, a full-employment law was passed which meant if you didn't work, you didn't get a ration card, and if you didn't have a card, you starved to death. Women who stayed home to raise their families didn't have any marketable skills and often had to take jobs more suited for men.

Soon after this, the draft was implemented. It was compulsory for young people, male and female, to give one year to the labor corps. During the day, the girls worked on the farms, and at night they returned to their barracks for military training just like the boys. They were trained to be anti-aircraft gunners and participated in the signal corps. After the labor corps, they were not discharged but were used in the front lines. When I go back to Austria to visit my family and friends, most of these women are emotional cripples because they just were not equipped to handle the horrors of combat. Three months before I turned 18, I was severely injured in an air raid attack. I nearly had a leg amputated, so I was spared having to go into the labor corps and into military service.

Hitler Restructured the Family Through Daycare:

When the mothers had to go out into the work force, the government immediately established child care centers. You could take your children ages 4 weeks to school age and leave them there around-the-clock, 7 days a week, under the total care of the government. The state raised a whole generation of children. There were no motherly women to take care of the children, just people highly trained in child psychology. By this time, no one talked about equal rights. We knew we had been had.

Health Care and Small Business Suffer Under Government Controls:

Before Hitler, we had very good medical care. Many American doctors trained at the University of Vienna. After Hitler, health care was socialized, free for everyone. Doctors were salaried by the government. The problem was, since it was free, the people were going to the doctors for everything. When the good doctor arrived at his office at 8 a.m., 40 people were already waiting and, at the same time, the hospitals were full. If you needed elective surgery, you had to wait a year or two for your turn. There was no money for research as it was poured into socialized medicine. Research at the medical schools literally stopped, so the best doctors left Austria and emigrated to other countries.

As for healthcare, our tax rates went up to 80% of our income. Newlyweds immediately received a $1,000 loan from the government to establish a household. We had big programs for families. All day care and education were free. High schools were taken over by the government and college tuition was subsidized. Everyone was entitled to free handouts, such as food stamps, clothing, and housing.

We had another agency designed to monitor business. My brother-in-law owned a restaurant that had square tables. Government officials told him he had to replace them with round tables because people might bump themselves on the corners. Then they said he had to have additional bathroom facilities. It was just a small dairy business with a snack bar. He couldn't meet all the demands. Soon, he went out of business. If the government owned the large businesses and not many small ones existed, it could be in control.

We had consumer protection. We were told how to shop and what to buy. Free enterprise was essentially abolished. We had a planning agency specially designed for farmers. The agents would go to the farms, count the live-stock, then tell the farmers what to produce, and how to produce it.

"Mercy Killing" Redefined:

In 1944, I was a student teacher in a small village in the Alps. The villagers were surrounded by mountain passes which, in the winter, were closed off with snow, causing people to be isolated. So people intermarried and offspring were sometimes retarded. When I arrived, I was told there were 15 mentally retarded adults, but they were all useful and did good manual work. I knew one, named Vincent, very well. He was a janitor of the school. One day I looked out the window and saw Vincent and others getting into a van. I asked my superior where they were going. She said to an institution where the State Health Department would teach them a trade, and to read and write. The families were required to sign papers with a little clause that they could not visit for 6 months. They were told visits would interfere with the program and might cause homesickness.

As time passed, letters started to dribble back saying these people died a natural, merciful death. The villagers were not fooled. We suspected what was happening. Those people left in excellent physical health and all died within 6 months. We called this euthanasia.

The Final Steps - Gun Laws:

Next came gun registration. People were getting injured by guns. Hitler said that the real way to catch criminals (we still had a few) was by matching serial numbers on guns. Most citizens were law abiding and dutifully marched to the police station to register their firearms. Not long afterwards, the police said that it was best for everyone to turn in their guns. The authorities already knew who had them, so it was futile not to comply voluntarily.

No more freedom of speech. Anyone who said something against the government was taken away. We knew many people who were arrested, not only Jews, but also priests and ministers who spoke up.

Totalitarianism didn't come quickly, it took 5 years from 1938 until 1943, to realize full dictatorship in Austria. Had it happened overnight, my countrymen would have fought to the last breath. Instead, we had creeping gradualism. Now, our only weapons were broom handles. The whole idea sounds almost unbelievable that the state, little by little eroded our freedom.

After World War II, Russian troops occupied Austria. Women were raped, preteen to elderly. The press never wrote about this either. When the Soviets left in 1955, they took everything that they could, dismantling whole factories in the process. They sawed down whole orchards of fruit, and what they couldn't destroy, they burned. We called it The Burned Earth. Most of the population barricaded themselves in their houses. Women hid in their cellars for 6 weeks as the troops mobilized. Those who couldn't, paid the price. There is a monument in Vienna today, dedicated to those women who were massacred by the Russians. This is an eye witness account.

It's true....those of us who sailed past the Statue of Liberty came to a country of unbelievable freedom and opportunity. America Truly is the Greatest Country in the World. Don't Let Freedom Slip Away.

After America, There is No Place to Run

<http://www.sdfamily.org/Kitty+Werthman>

<http://www.sodahead.com/united-states/after-america-there-is-no-place-to-go/blog>

THE HOUSE THE PROGRESSIVES BUILT

By Betty Freauf
February 28, 2010
NewsWithViews.com

Like relatives politely squabbling at a family event, President Obama along with his Democrat team and Republicans wasted seven plus hours of our time on February 25 listening to the Health Care summit. While the Republican legislators tried to make some excellent points, about the time I thought they were about to sine die, the president then took an additional 20 minutes for his summation of the event. It was noted he talked nine minutes longer than all the Republicans combined but he's president so his time didn't seem to count, he said.

In a few days it will be full speed ahead with his original agenda. While there were several rather controversial moments, perhaps the one that got the most attention was when former presidential candidate Senator John McCain was told by President Obama, "We aren't campaigning any more. The election is over." In other words, "Shut up. I won you lost!" Other GOP participants kept reading points from the earlier bills and quoting word for word what our dipstick Democrat leaders have made making absolute liars out of them. Calling it the Beer Summit may have been more accurate because without his teleprompter, our Harvard man President Obama kept stumbling over his words. Remembering how Senator Barbara Boxer (D-Cal) asked a Brigadier General to call her "Senator" rather than "maam", I was appalled at how disrespectful and condescending President Obama was when he referred to Summit participants by their first names.

By the way, Senator Boxer has a measly 5% Constitutional approval in the December 7, 2008 New American current scoreboard. Senator Mike Johanns (R-Neb.) offered an amendment to the fiscal 2010 Transportation -HUD appropriations bill stating: "None of the funds made available under this Act may be directly or indirectly distributed to the Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now (ACORN). It passed by an 83-7 vote. ACORN had been in the news so much that she must have felt it wise to oppose them; however, knowing a little about how the bureaucracy works and how closely tied Barack Obama has been to ACORN, I suspect they are getting their money from another bureaucratic source.

I chuckled the day following the Summit when Rush Limbaugh using Blogger Bungalow Bill's insight at how quickly the media knew everything about the killer whale's history that had surfaced the day before the Summit but failed to inform voters about Obama's birth certificate, college records, associations, family background, etc. before the election.

Federal Taxes 101

We won't begin by asking you if you're better off today than you were on January 1, 2007 when the Democrats took over Congress; most of us find no humor in that question. In fact, it is most certain that if you're in the middle class you have been brought down at least one notch; upper-middle class down to middle class. Your assets and savings have been diminished by a loss of value and an increase in personal debt.

In addition your total tax liabilities have jumped from an average of 39% to over 52%. Your total tax liability includes income, property, and straight-out levied taxes such as sales taxes, gas tax, and tobacco taxes. Indirect levied taxes are those hidden in the goods and services that you purchase—As an example, even Wal-Mart has to pay property taxes, corporate taxes, taxes on behalf of their employees, and all those little taxes included in telephone, internet, and any other utility bills.

Many "emotional" sob stories were shared by Democrat participants at the Summit but the one that topped them all was New York Democrat Congress woman, Louise Slaughter with a worse Constitutional voting record than Boxer's noted above. She told of one constituent because she couldn't afford dentures had to use her dead sister's. The Congresswoman was shocked that this could happen in America.

What is even more shocking to me is how people like Senator Harry Reid (D-Nev) and House Speaker Nancy Pelosi (D-Cal) and Congresswoman Slaughter could even get elected! Because my husband and I did not join the socialist organization AARP that offered the Medicare Advantage plan which included many perks such as hearing aids, one of these days I'll be wearing a hand-me-down hearing aid the widow of a veteran gave me. Now, I've been told the hearing aid can be adjusted for my use but I truly doubt dentures can be. Maybe someone can prove me wrong.

A February 2, 2005 article said Medicare was covering Viagra and similar drugs. Michael McAuliff writing in the New York Daily News on Dec. 22, 2005 said our U.S. House of Representatives approved a measure to use $90 million dollars, which had been earmarked for influenza preparedness, to be used instead to provide the sex-drug Viagra free to people on Medicare and Medicaid.

No where was it noted at the Summit that in 1995 when Medicare turned 30 years old the Republicans wanted to "reform" Medicare but Clinton charged Republicans who were offering a fix for Medicare that it would put elderly Americans at risk. This recommended "reform" was on Republican House Speaker Newt Gingrich's watch so should I have been surprised when he appeared on Greta's FOX show that he didn't make this point or did I miss it? Readers may recall how the little green man Gingrich in April 2008 made a commercial with House Speaker Pelosi promoting Al Gore's $300 million global-warming ad campaign. Gingrich is a sheep in wolves clothing and I believe he may run for President so beware. He is a Progressive through and through.

Maybe Patrick Buchanan in his 2004 book Where the Right Went Wrong can tell us why Gingrich was silent about the GOP reform on his watch. Buchanan writes about the Republican Revolution of 1994, when, in 1995, Newt Gingrich backed down in his showdown with Clinton. Clinton, at the nadir of his presidency, refused to accept Gingrich-Dole cuts in the growth of Medicare, which they had embedded in a budget resolution and sent to the White House. Clinton vetoed the budget, shut down the government, and blamed the Republican's insistency on "cutting Medicare." Polls showed the nation backing Clinton and backing away from Congress. Gingrich and the GOP capitulated and did as Clinton demanded, restored the Medicare funds. Even at his weakest, Clinton had read the country right and bested the GOP when it thought the country was behind it.

Like Lee at Gettysburg, the party had chosen to fight on the wrong battlefield. At that point the Republican morale was broken, wrote Buchanan. And no one until now has had the guts to take on the task. Now, today, Barack and friends want an unelected, unaccountable "death panel" to approve or reject treatments using a formula that divides the cost of the treatment by the number of years the patient is likely to benefit and guess who is targeted? The elderly. Instead of going after the shysters who bilk the Medicare system for millions first, the elderly who have paid into the system believing they'd have the "insurance" when they grow old are being targeted. The cost of Medicaid and illegals can be addressed in another article.

At that time in 1995 Medicare was providing medical coverage for 33 million elderly and 4 million disabled Americans making it one of the most popular and politically important government programs. In addition, children 18 and under are eligible for Social Security when a working parent dies. With Americans living longer and health-care costs rising, Medicare and its sister Medicaid program for the poor are the fastest growing part of the federal budget. Trustees were projecting that Medicare's hospital fund would go broke in 2002 without corrective action. To use the word "trustee" suggests something is in trust; however, the bureaucrats found the social security deposits to be just another slush fund. Today there is no trust fund and baby boomers are now retiring and looking for their share only to find it broke. In addition to presidents appointing naifs to head these unconstitutional agencies that always end up mismanaged and because there is no accountability or punishment like there is in the private sector, one of the most profitable crimes in America is the fraud industry.

Mark Levin in his 2009 book Liberty and Tyranny said in 1965, President Lyndon Johnson, building on the New Deal with his Great Society, used the umbrella of the Social Security Act to establish two massive new entitlement programs – Medicare and Medicaid. As Johnson said when he signed the Medicare bill, 'In 1935, when...Franklin Delano Roosevelt signed the Society Security Act, he said it was, and I quote him, 'a cornerstone in a structure which is being built but it is by no means complete.' Well, perhaps no single act in the entire administration of the beloved Franklin D. Roosevelt really did more to win him the illustrious place in history he has as did the laying of that cornerstone...And those who share this day will also be remembered for making the most important addition to that structure, and you are making it in this bill, but most important addition that has been made in three decades." Johnson explained, "Through this new law...every citizen will be able, in his productive years when he is earning, to insure himself against the ravages of illness in his old age. This insurance will help pay for care in hospitals, in skilled nursing homes, or in the home. And under a separate plan, it will help meet the fees of doctors." So Johnson, like Roosevelt, understood the importance of deceiving the American people by packaging Medicare's potential costs in the lie of insurance. A November 27, 2009 article said Medicare makes an expected announcement that Physicians' pay will be cut 21% in 2010. The Medicare Fee Schedule sets payment rates for more than 7,000 types of services in physicians' offices, hospitals and other settings. Recently, a number of letters to the editor in my local paper tell about how doctors are no longer taking Medicare patients.

The private sector could never get away with such lies. When we sign up for insurance through the private sector, we have a legal and binding contract and they are required by law to have substantial reserves or its CEOs go to jail if the government doesn't unconstitutionally decide to bail them out. Yes, some people with pre-existing conditions may be rated or put into risk categories and others such as smokers, mountain climbers, skydivers and others in risky categories may have a higher premium, which is understandable. But with the government in charge, anyone is eligible and the responsible ones pay for the risky behaviors and let's be honest. Many who don't have insurance would sooner spend their money on frivolous items instead.

Would you believe that when Republican President George W. Bush's stupid, unconstitutional $400 billion entitlement Medicare prescription drug bill endorsed by Senator Ted Kennedy (D-Mass) was introduced in the Senate, Hillary Clinton voted against it? Why? Because Hillary didn't believe it went far enough.

Well, dear readers, it has been 35 years since Johnson sold Americans this big lie just as FDR did 75 years earlier. This is what happens when our elected officials step outside the constraints of the Constitution and pass unconstitutional laws. Who will be willing to sacrifice their perks and today's living standards before we are reduced to Third World status? If not us, who? If not now, when?

The unfunded liabilities are so gigantic that there is no way government is going to be able to deliver all of Medicare's promises in addition to all the other entitlements. I believe Glenn Beck is preparing us for 50% in cuts and a return to post thirties-forties depression standards in order to save the ship from sinking and we all go down.

Read the full article at:
<http://www.newswithviews.com/Betty/Freauf157.htm>

Betty is a former Oregon Republican party activist having served as state party secretary, county chairman, 5th congressional vice chairman and then elected chairman, and a precinct worker for many years but Betty gave up on the two-party system in 2004 and joined the Constitutional Party.

Betty is a researcher specializing in education, a freelance journalist and a regular contributor to www.NewsWithViews.com

E-Mail:
bettyboot@countrycablevision.net

The cumulative total of federal income taxes collected in 2007 was $2,674,007,818,000; an average of $8,528.22 per person.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Federal_tax_revenue_by_state

An income tax is a tax levied on the income of individuals or business (corporations or other legal entities). Various income tax systems exist, with varying degrees of tax incidence. Income taxation can be progressive, proportional, or regressive. When the tax is levied on the income of companies, it is often called a corporate tax, corporate income tax, or profit tax. Individual income taxes often tax the total income of the individual (with some deductions permitted), while corporate income taxes often tax net income (the difference between gross receipts, expenses, and additional write-offs). Various systems define income differently, and often allow notional reductions of income (such as a reduction based on number of children supported).

Payroll tax generally refers to two different kinds of similar taxes. The first kind is a tax that employers are required to withhold from employees' pay, also known as withholding, pay-as-you-earn (PAYE), or pay-as-you-go (PAYG) tax. The second kind is a tax that is paid from the employer's own funds and that is directly related to employing a worker, which can consist of a fixed charge or be proportionally linked to an employee's pay.

Figure 1. Sources of Federal Tax Revenue, Fiscal Year 2008

Source	Percentage
Individual income tax	45%
Payroll taxes	36%
Corporate income tax	12%
Excise taxes	3%
Other	4%

Source: Congressional Budget Office, A Preliminary Analysis of the President's Budget and an Update of CBO's Budget and Economic Outlook, March 2009, Table F-3, available at <http://www.cbo.gov/ftpdocs/100xx/doc10044/11HistoricalMar09.pdf>

WILL VOTE FRAUD DETERMINE UPCOMING PRIMARIES—AGAIN?

By: Devvy

March 1, 2010

© 2010 - NewsWithViews.com

Vote fraud. I have been writing about it since 1993. The Republican and Democratic parties are well greased, well run corrupt enterprises who did nothing to stop the fraud and in fact, opened the door for more: National Voter Registration Act of 1993 aka Motor Voter Law, which opened the flood gates for fraud. While this was 2001, it's only gotten worse:

"A recent study in Georgia found more than 15,000 dead people on active voting rolls statewide. Alaska, according to Federal Election Commission, had 502,968 names on its voter rolls in 1998. The census estimates only 437,000 people of voting age were living in the state that year...

"A cursory check of the registration cards turned up questionable names. Shortly thereafter, election board workers spent an entire day calling the names listed on the cards and found that nearly all of them were fraudulent. Many of them sought to register prominent people, dead or alive - as well as at least three deceased aldermen and a dog. The media have reported that close examinations have turned up cards that attempted to register prominent businessmen using their childhood addresses, a former deputy mayor using an old address for an alderman, and a former alderman who has been dead for years.

"They also found cards for convicted felons and for residents who did not seek to register themselves in the primary. The woman at the center of this vote fraud investigation "doesn't deny" that some of her canvassers may have turned in bogus voter registration cards. A grand jury convened by St. Louis Circuit Attorney Jennifer Joyce has begun interviewing witnesses regarding the 3,800 bogus registration cards. St. Louis police have obtained a warrant and searched the house of the Operation Big Vote director for evidence.

"Not surprisingly, many St. Louis residents are angry that someone had registered them and knew information such as their Social Security numbers. Some of the people registered by the bogus cards told Election Board workers that someone calling himself "Big Mike" came to their homes and said he was with the Election Board and wanted to register them.....

"The clogged rolls have cost taxpayers thousands of dollars in cleanup costs and additional election expenses. For example, the Indiana Election Division has conducted its statewide duplicate program four times at a total cost of about $900,000. Moreover, several county officials in Indiana have increased the number of voting sites unnecessarily because the lists are so inaccurate.

"The county that includes the transient student population of Indiana University at Bloomington has added about a half dozen precincts since "Motor Voter" became law. Each new precinct costs county taxpayers $10,000 for two voting machines and about $500 per election for additional poll workers and supplies. Statewide in Indiana, more than 200 precincts have been added since the law went into effect, according to state election officials. Such costs are not trivial, especially since the state gets nothing in return for such spending. Such costs for the nation as a whole must be large.

"We have also learned about the threat of vote fraud posed by such wildly inaccurate voting rolls. Susan Morandi, Nevada's deputy secretary of state for elections, noted that the Motor Voter Act made registration easier but also made the process "much more open to voter fraud." Experts like Deborah Phillips of the Voter Integrity Project add that the trend toward mail-in and absentee voting exacerbates this problem, since those seeking to manipulate the system can pretend to be a dead person or someone who has moved, and then cast a ballot.....

"Mr. Chairman, judged by its purposes, the National Voter Registration Act should be judged a failure. The Act has brought about a substantial increase in the number of registered voters. However, that increase has been bought at a high price. Specifically, the Act has made it difficult if not impossible to maintain clean registration rolls, a major purpose of the law. Moreover, the inaccuracy in the rolls caused by the Act has thrown into doubt the integrity of our electoral system."

Our elections have been stolen from us for decades. I know because I ran for Congress. I know what it's like to be cheated. Thousands were screaming about it election after election, but it wasn't until the 2000 pretend presidential election that the Democrats catapulted the issue into America's living rooms. Of course, the derelict "mainstream" media made sure it got lots of exposure because their choice of destruction was Comrade Al Gore, endorsed by the Communist Party USA as was fellow Marxist, Obama.

Great progress has been made in getting rid of electronic ballot machines, but they will be used in dozens of states in the upcoming primaries and elections. Some states have gone to just optical scanners, which have already been proven to be easily rigged. Remember this: He who counts the votes, controls the elections.

I can tell you that any candidate running on a constitutional ticket will be crushed by vote fraud. Our primary here in Texas is tomorrow. Debra Medina is a constitutional candidate running against Kay 'Bail Outs' Hutchinson and our corrupt governor, Rick Perry. Medina wasn't given a snow ball's change in Hades of beating either one, but according to polls, she is about 4% points behind the despicable Hutchinson who sold out this country a long time ago. All around the state you see signs which read: Farmers trust Kay! Why would they? She voted for NAFTA, GATT and CAFTA -- the very treaties that have killed our ranchers and farmers.

This anti-American female voted for a National ID. She has NEVER introduced legislation to give parity for our farmers and ranchers. Kay Bailey Hutchinson is a parasite who should have been booted out of public office a long time ago. It is beyond reason why any farmer or rancher would vote for her.

Rick Perry is as corrupt as they come. He is running for a third term ONLY to be a front runner in the 2012 elections. A sitting governor has a much better chance with the mindless who punch holes in a voting card than a has been politician. Perry signed an Executive Order to force the deadly HPV vaccine into all girls in this state. Our legislature stepped in and stopped it. Rick Perry openly supports giving ILLEGAL aliens breaks on college tuition. Illegals who are not entitled to attend any school at any level in this country because they are here illegally.

I just love the argument of the propaganda meisters who say, oh, we must educate illegals in our schools so they have a better chance at good jobs! Hello? Illegal aliens have NO right to any employment in this country because they are here illegally. Such insanity is a cancer in this country.

Perry has been the muscle behind trying to get the TTC (Texas Trans Corridor) a done deal. Globalist Perry has also pushed hard for the NAFTA Super Highway. Perry is a professional politician who supports a one world government through his own actions. Congressman Ron Paul believes, as thousands of us do, that Perry should have been investigated for violation of the Logan Act. Of course, it was never pursued because Perry is a player and protected for his treachery.

Then, we have another strange thing happen. Out of the blue, Glenn Beck, deliberately blind sided Texas gubernatorial candidate, Debra Medina. One has to wonder why Beck set up the only honest candidate who does understand the issues and isn't owned by globalists? I'm voting for Debra Medina. She is very close to overtaking Hutchinson. Perry is the front runner in our primary tomorrow. Debra has to force a run off so every vote will count...or will it? If she doesn't get the numbers, I strongly advise her to immediately run an audit on a half dozen precincts before the vote is certified. Catch them in the fraud right away or it's all over.

The same goes for another outstanding candidate, John Dennis, who is running against one of the most anti-Constitution professional whores to ever serve in Congress: Nancy Pelosi. If I were in John's district, I would be out knocking on every door passing out his literature. If you live in California's 8th District and want to see Pelosi shoved out the door, I hope you will contact John's campaign office and work to help get him elected. California's primary is in June, so you have time to help him get elected.

While Jane Harman (D-CA) should go live in Commie China where she belongs, her Republican opponent would not get my vote: Mattie Fein. She claims to support the U.S. Constitution, but is in favor of committing our military to Iranian dissidents. If you are in that district, I hope you will look behind the curtain:

Institute for Persian Studies

"Meet Mahtaub 'Mattie' Hojjati," Spencer Ackerman wrote July 6, 2007, for TPMmuckraker. [2] "A well-connected government and business consultant Hojjati is about to embark on a new career: revolutionary provocateur. She has two missions: to hasten the overthrow of the Iranian regime, and to convince the American public to support her.

"Under the byline of Mattie Fein -- her husband is Bruce Fein, the prominent Reagan-era Justice Department lawyer last seen calling for the impeachment of Dick Cheney -- Hojjati penned an op-ed [3] in the Washington Times last week heralding the creation of a new think tank, known as the the Institute for Persian Studies, devoted to pushing the regime over the abyss. From her perspective, the nearly 30-year old Iranian Revolution is in a terminal phase. 'The cue that most of the population is looking for is international support,' she tells TPMmuckraker, 'but right now, they're getting mixed signals.'"

"Hojjati is going to scale back her consulting work at the Lichfield Group, a boutique image-management firm that boasts of 'high level connections with the Department of Justice, the Department of State, and the Central Intelligence Agency' and the media," Ackerman wrote." (Emphasis mine)

Fein: "As a Vice President of The Lichfield Group, Ms. Fein has advised companies...." You can read an interview here that begins with: "She is a Republican Jewish brunette, and perhaps the hottest woman in politics." Well, there's a qualifier for you: a hot babe. While she doesn't come out and say it, I strongly believe Fein is a Zionist and for that alone, I would not vote for her; I would vote for an independent if one is on the ballot. Otherwise, I would not vote for that seat. If you would like to learn more about Zionism (which has zip to do with being of the Jewish faith), I recommend this web site which has taught me so much: True Torah Jews Against Zionism.

Ms. Fein also says this: "None should be handicapped or excluded from a "fair chance" to succeed based upon the content of their character and their devotion to the work ethic." People should not be concerned about the content of someone's character? Well, Ms. Fein, I disagree because character does count. Just look at the character of Marxist Barack Hussein Obama or Arlen Specter.

In any event, go ahead, hold your nose and vote. Some of the voters in Massachusetts did because it was either 1980's nudie model, Scott Brown or Martha Coakley. Brown is nothing more than a Democrat passing himself off as a Republican. Brown never met a big budget he didn't vote for; his record was out there for the voters to see. Now, he has shown his true colors by voting for the unconstitutional "jobs bill" and has justified it with the polished excuse crooks in Congress always use: "This Senate jobs bill is not perfect. I wish the tax cuts were deeper and broader, but I am voting for it because it contains measures that will help put people back to work." A crock of bull; see Congress Refuses to Bring Home Millions of Jobs.

Prior to his election win, Brown voted to support the first ever regional greenhouse gas emissions trading plan. Wait! Now he's not sure "climate change" is a problem. Flip flop. Just like Mitt Romney. Like Saint Sarah Palin, Brown is also endorsing the despicable Juan McCain who wants to reward illegal aliens with amnesty --- for votes. Scott Brown voted for Mitt Romney's destructive mandatory health care insurance law. He offered up the usual lame excuses. Scott Brown voted for a grotesque piece of legislation that has hurt the people of Massachusetts. Now he's in Congress voting for bills that affect me, even though I don't live in Massachusetts and THAT is why I continue to harp on the fraudulent ratification of the Seventeenth Amendment.

Uh, oh, wait a minute. Bev Harris, a truly dedicated and honest American fighting vote fraud regardless of party, says the win may not pass the hand count done:

"According to preliminary media results by municipality, Democrat Martha Coakley won Massachusetts overall in its hand counted locations,* with 51.12% of the vote (32,247 hand counted votes) to Brown's 30,136, which garnered him 47.77% of hand counted votes. Margin: 3.35% lead for Coakley.

"Massachusetts has 71 hand count locations, 91 ES&S locations, and 187 Diebold locations, with two I call the mystery municipalities (Northbridge and Milton) apparently using optical scanners, not sure what kind....

"Twenty-four of Diebold's 187 locations wandered in late, smoking cigarettes and wearing a bathrobe. That's 12.83% of all its locations. Apparently it was faster to hand count 8,497 ballots, as they did promptly in Newburyport, or 7,339 ballots, as they hand counted in public for all to see in Milton, than to push a button and wait five minutes for the machine to spit out a Diebold results report in Pelham where they had 725 votes. East Brookfield's 899 Diebold votes must have run out of gas somewhere; they weren't reported for hours.

"All in all, a total of 170,594 Diebold votes took a long time to stumble in the door. These votes -- surprise! -- favored Coakley. She got 86,214 of them, for 50.54%, and Brown got 82,911 tardy Diebold votes, for 48.60%, putting Coakley on the plus side of the late arrivers by a 1.94% margin, for a net gain of 3,303 slow-moving votes.

"They'd called the election by the time the 170,594 tardy Diebold votes showed up. Coakley had conceded."

There are too many really fine constitutional candidates running in the upcoming primaries to list them all here. However, at the risk of sounding like a broken record because candidates have ignored my advice for more than a decade: If you allegedly lose and don't audit the vote, you will never know if you were cheated because of vote fraud. This means setting aside some money and get a hand count in selected precincts (don't let anyone know which ones until after the election). Fair and impartial elections for all is the American way. Without hand counting of the ballots in front of the candidates and general public, we have no idea who is getting elected and this has been going on for decades. Below is a fraction of documented vote fraud and it WILL happen again during the upcoming primaries and November election if the people of this country don't demand paper ballots that are hand counted openly, not behind closed doors, and NO electronic machines or optical scanners of any flavor.

Read full article with links at:

<http://www.newswithviews.com/Devvy/kidd483.htm>

Devvy's regularly posted new columns are on her site at: www.devvy.com. You can also sign up for her free email alerts.

E-mail is: devvyk@earthlink.net

P'losi-whipped

One of the best emails to be shared recently was the one that suggested that no matter how bad your life is, remember that out there somewhere is a Mr. Pelosi. While most men actually cringed as they read the email the fact is it reflects the current political machine and how Congress has let the ball bearings go dry, literally and figuratively.

At this point in Obama's career it's pretty obvious he's nothing more than a eunuch, not even rising to the level of beta-male. Between the two dominant bitches in Obama's life and the swarm of beta males in the White House den and in Congress, it's no wonder why the North Korea and Iran alpha males are lifting their legs to mark their territory. The noticeable fact is that Obama has no male pheromones, weighing-in at 179.9 pounds in shoes and workout attire and a body mass of 23.7. At 6'1", his body hasn't matured yet and is more in-line with a 15 year-old.

Niles advised Fraser on the Fraser television show that he had told his wife Maris that Spandex is supposed to hang. At 6'0", GW Bush weighed 189.75 pounds at the time of his first physical in 2001. GWB is a rancher so his bulk weight is mostly muscle.

Although Glenn Beck reported that the doctors suggest Obama moderate his alcohol intake, we were unable to find that in the medical notes that were released. Evidently the closest Obama comes to manhood is his habit of smoking. Obama's cholesterol went from 173 to 209, so he's showing some promise of eventually becoming a regular human being.

The 48 year-old Obama has many "cougars" that surround him. Unable to make a decision or speak without the teleprompter, Obama is the epitome of the modern metro-sexual. These new males are in a rapid transition toward becoming the weakest of the species.

On the political front, Obama has no authority; he is well behaved and does as he's told. While campaigning on what can't be described as any other than a staunch communist platform, the only clear difference between the public campaigner and the clearly out-ranked President is the Pelosi Factor. Obama is P'losi-whipped.

Every agenda item coming from the bowels of the White House are given first by the Pelosi Camp. Senators Harry Reid and John McCain are also fully controlled by at least one of the alpha bitches. Maybe once those lacking manhood are voted out of office they'll get the jar off Pelosi's desk that hold their testacies.

We're well aware that this sounds more like an expose' from the Us rag, but it needs to be said. The guy who was elected, legally or not, to the White House and most of those holding office in Congress is what California Governor Arnold had so articulately described as girlie-men.

We are most thankful that our military forces remain the best in the world, for the time-being. The push for gays to serve in the open in the military will change those dynamics. The Gay Marriage allowance in DC will also change our nation's capitol.

It always intrigued us that these same people who oppose smoking have no problem with unnatural sex acts, including sodomy. While the metro-sexual Spandex people toss out their Bible in favor of secular inclusiveness and social immorality, citizens have become far less tolerant of their antics.

We will most certainly see a shift to elect real men and real women in 2010. In the meantime, enjoy your screwing.

Can you identify the President who flew jet fighters in the U. S. military?

PROGRESSIVISM

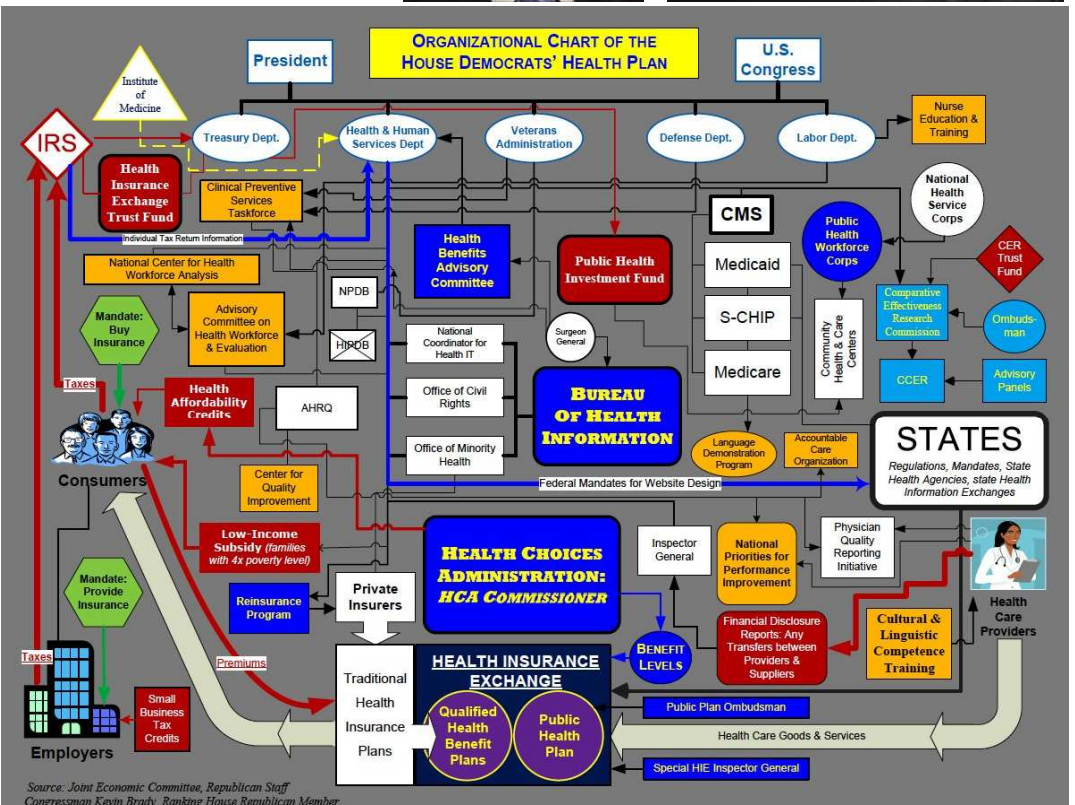

PRESIDENT'S SIGNATURE ENACTS CURRENCY LAW
Wilson Declares It the First of Series of Constructive Acts to Aid Business.

Makes Speech to Group of Democratic Leaders. Conference Report Adopted in Senate by Vote of 43 to 26. Banks All Over the Country Hasten to Enter Federal Reserve System. Gov-Elect Wilson Calls Passage of Bill. A Fine Christmas Present.

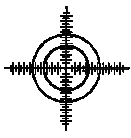

WILSON SEES DAWN OF NEW ERA IN BUSINESS
Aims to Make Prosperity Free to Have Unimpeached Momentum.

UNITED STATES IMMIGRATION SERVICES
Online U.S. Immigration Services
IMMIGRATION * DIRECT
YOUR ONLINE US IMMIGRATION SOURCE

Source: Joint Economic Committee, Republican Staff Congressman Kevin Brady, Ranking House Republican Member

PATRIOTS OF AMERICA PUBLICATION

VISIT US ON-LINE!

HTTP://NATIONALDEFENDER.US/

Contact us:

editor@nationaldefender.us

Michigan votes

<http://www.michiganvotes.org/>

NOTE: You can type your state's name in the address bar along with the words "votes.org", such as ohiovotes.org—<http://ohiovotes.org/>

Would you speak with the Chief of Staff, Chief Economics Adviser, and Senior Adviser with your feet up on the Resolute Desk - a gift from Queen Victoria to President Rutherford B. Hayes in 1880?

THIS SIDE UP BY J. C. POWERS

There are numerous political debates going on throughout the Upper Peninsula and in the State of Michigan. With the State's unemployment rate at 14.3% and the national rate at 9.7%, politicians and their knee-pad advocates are stressing the economic, social, and moral fiber of the nation to its breaking point.

The Kennecott Minerals operation on the Yellow Dog Plains is still being challenged by little environmental fringe groups. The best the eco-whacks can come up with is that a nearly extinct brook trout called a "coaster" will be completely wiped-out by the operation. Once in the pan they all taste the same.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Yellow_Dog_Plains
<http://www.savethewildup.org/>

Although the environmentalist claim the Yellow Dog Plains to be "pristine", except for various forestry operations, the reality is that land has been highly utilized by sporting enthusiasts, including those riding their motorized toys.

Forestry operations that left hillsides unprotected, which permitted the soil to wash into the Yellow Dog River, hasn't seemed to cause these non-native self-appointed protectors to file unlimited law suits to prevent logging operations. In-fact, the environmentalists have yet to protest the mining of iron ore, which is also a sulfide-based ore, or even the rapid filling-in of wet lands, lakes, and forests with left-over rock from the iron ore mining operations. Curious.

Oh, the environmentalists want to ban sulfide (Thioether) mining. The only problem is that sulfide can't be mined; there's no such thing as sulfide mining.

MEATLESS HOLIDAY DECLARED

Michigan's Canadian-in-Chief declared Saturday, March 20th, 2010, as a meatless holiday. We here at the ND were surprised she didn't declare Friday a no-meat day since fish is the primary diet for practicing Catholics. Of course her declaration went over well with members of the agricultural community; there was a barbeque planned on the Capitol's lawn.

This most recent declaration should now alert those who advocated tobacco taxes; meat eaters, soft-drink drinkers, and French fry munchers are next. Just keep voting for the communists and we will no longer have to worry about dying from anything except a state-issued kill-pill. No, really! Have you ever heard of anyone dying from a non-smoking related illness or from a good diet?

CONGRESSIONAL RACE

1st District Representative Bart Stupak, who has endorsed numerous pro-abortion candidates during his tenure, is engaged in the pro-life debate and even landed a FOX interview with Greta Van Susteren.

While the Hyde Amendment requires 2/3rds vote by both Houses to override it, Stupak is attempting to defer the previous Amendment in favor of his own. Stupak, who already voted for the Health Care Bill once without his anti-taxpayer-funded abortion language, has created quite a stir within his own Democrat Party.

Connie Saltonstall, who appears to be a devout in-utero baby-killer from Charlevoix County is throwing her curette and cannula in the political ring. She suggested that Mr. Stupak has let his District down.

The Republican challenger is Dr. Dan Benishek from Crystal Falls. Within a few days after Stupak voted for the health care bill, Dr. Benishek has been talked about on Bill Bennett, interviewed by Mark Levin, Neil Cavuto and the UP's own Outspoken Sportsman, Bill Moore.

<http://benishekforcongress.com>

Dr. Benishek went from a handful of supporters on his Facebook page to well over 20,000. He has also garnered about $100,000 so far; a pittance compared to Stupak's coffers, but it's a start. Please contribute and volunteer!

FIRE THE INCUMBENTS

The TEA Party rallies have been active and will start-up again shortly. Although the media would lead us to believe this enormous grassroots explosion is based on high taxes and health care legislation, that is only partially true. The TEA Party movement is a package that includes too much spending, too many taxes, too much, too much, too much, all the while doing too little in regards to representing the constituency.

The common theme among attendees is that most incumbents must be fired. If your represented voted for any of the spending bills over the last four years, they need to be fired. If your rep voted for cap and trade, a TARP bail-out, health care, they must be fired.

It is imperative you do your homework and show your results to all those who live in your district.

For national reps their voting records can be found at:

<http://votesmart.org/>

Michigan residents can learn how their state reps voted at:

<http://www.michiganvotes.org/>

GAS PRICES

Gas prices have been creeping up again and there is no one to blame except those in Congress. Just to remind you, in 2005 when Exxon-Mobile made their first record 10.71 billion in the 4th Quarter, all US oil producers made a whopping $840 billion through their North America and global operations; the windfall profits garnered by the US government was $1.3 trillion. The Democrats assumed control of both Houses of Congress on January 1, 2006—Exxon-Mobile posted a record profit of $45.2 billion for 2008. One can only imagine the windfall profits that were made by the government in 2008; probably damn-near enough to pay all of our health insurance tabs.

But what's most intriguing about all of this is that no one really gives a crap about the consumer, from either side. We need gas, even at it's current $3 +/- per gallon, yet somehow these people think the unemployed are going to be able to drive around to interviews, job fairs and drop-off applications.

People who lost their retirement funds and living on fixed incomes are also expected to dole out $45-$60 for a tank of gas twice a week? It's a good thing Congress spent its time concentrating on health care.

While on this topic, where does Congress get its authority to ban USA oil companies from drilling off-shore in international waters? Isn't that a lot like funding a federal bureaucracy to check passengers before boarding private aircraft?

Good-bye Incumbents!